

RHYTHMIC DISPLACEMENT

FROM DIGGING DEEPER VIDEO #184

Nothing is hipper and more fun than developing an idea in rhythm. Drummers are masters at this concept, but we should ALL be working on this side of our playing. Like a drummer, a sax player or guitarist plays rhythms all night too, right? Let's get to work on our rhythmic displacement chops!

Rhythmic Displacement is simply beginning a musical idea in different places, on different beats or different subdivisions of the measure. Moving an idea around in time. The best advice is to work with short and easy to remember melodies and rhythms. The complexity will come quickly, as we begin moving those ideas around. Keep them simple to start with.

#1 - Three Quarter Notes

#2 - "The Displacement Blues"

