

JAZZ INSPIRATION

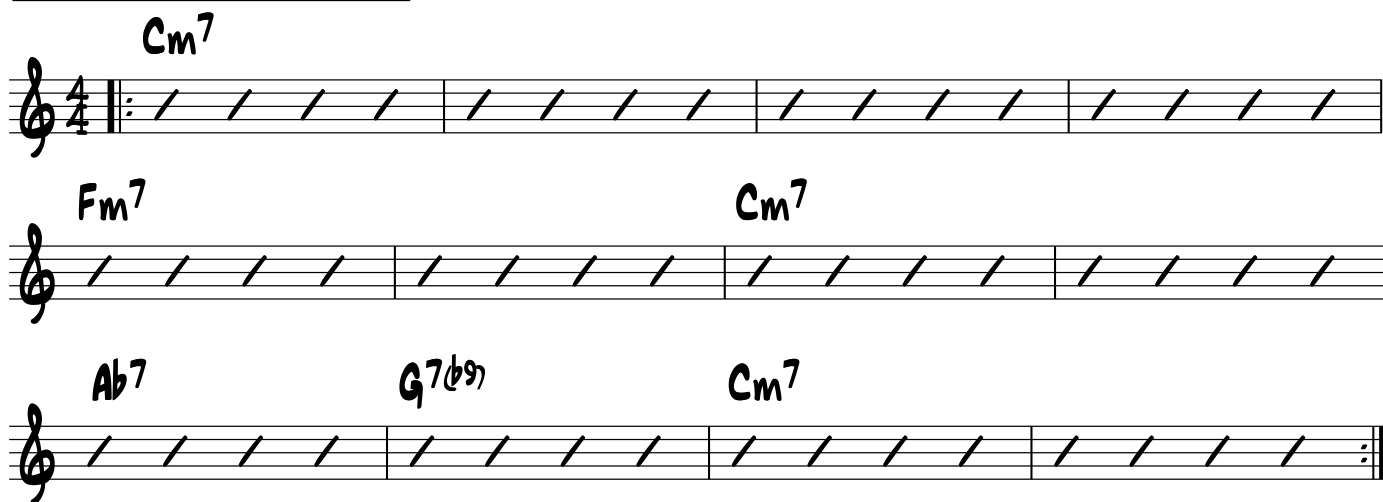

FROM DIGGING DEEPER VIDEO #188

What is it that powers jazz? Is it ii-V-I licks and harmonic substitutions? New saxophone mouthpieces and vintage guitar amps? Or maybe it's a big pile of jazz method books. Those items are all great, but they aren't "the thing." They are "about the thing."

Jazz is powered by human beings interacting. Jazz is about democracy in action, about two or more people figuring it out, in real time. Videos and books, pdf's and individual practice time are all nice, but you can't get there from here.

If you are lacking inspiration and direction, it's because you aren't interacting enough. You aren't working on the music with other people. If you trade fours on a jazz tune with another human being (a mentor, a student, anyone), you will be instantly inspired. You will move beyond yourself. Be sure to find a place where you can be inspired, in real time. Do that today. www.JazzWire.net is a great place to start.

#1 - Minor Blues in C

#2 - A "Triad Pair" for minor chords

#3 - 8th note triplets, 12/8

