

JAZZ IS INVESTING

FROM DIGGING DEEPER VIDEO #122

It's important to understand how jazz is like saving, and how it is like investing. In the finance world, if we can save well and invest properly, we are heading into a pleasant future. Likewise, if you do your Jazz Saving & Investing properly, you will truly be happier, you'll be playing much better, and you'll be more comfortable on your instrument. You'll have a great future.

1) Jazz Is Saving - You need to be making regular deposits into your Jazz Bank Account. Adding licks and devices, songs and progressions, rhythms, sounds and textures. And this needs to be done with consistency and with intention.

2) Jazz Is Investing - You are spending REAL MONEY and REAL TIME on music. You are buying instruments, lessons and workshops. You are spending a good deal of time playing and practicing. As with a financial investment, you should come out AHEAD, or it's a bad investment. If you aren't NOTICEABLY better than you were a year ago, you need to fire some people. And, if you are NOT spending money right now, (ie. investing in getting better), you need to start. Investing in yourself is always the correct answer.

3) Jazz Is Investing - in your own Happiness. Most of us are doing music because it makes us happy, not because someone is making us. Jazz is hard work, but rewarding work. You should be HAPPY with your progress!! If you aren't happy, if you are ill at ease, if you wondering if you are any good, you need to invest in a community, a team. Invest in support.
