

SIGHT READING #2 - MELODY

FROM DIGGING DEEPER VIDEO #127

Be sure to look back at Digging Deeper video #124. Sight reading music is MOSTLY about getting the rhythm right, so sight reading is mostly about DDJ #124! That said, there are these pesky little things called "pitches." Let's look at that side of things here.

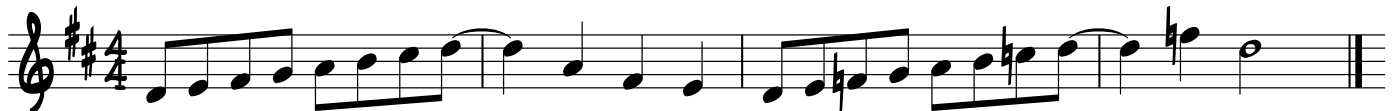

GENERAL TIPS

- 1) Prioritize rhythms first. Pitches second, articulations third, then style and dynamics.
- 2) If you practice you'll get better. If this is a goal for you, work on it a bit each day.
- 3) The building blocks of the melodies you'll see are not infinite. Nowhere close. Learn to identify some of the simple underlying building blocks you'll run across.
- 4) Sight reading is "pattern recognition."
- 5) Look Ahead!

SPECIFIC TIPS

- 1) Look at the key signature. Set your brain and finger to that key/system/state/mode.
- 2) Look for accidentals (sharps, flats, naturals). Those are "exceptions to the rule" (#1).
- 3) Look for tonalities, scales, shapes that you recognize.
- 4) Make educated guesses, then move on IN TIME.

#1 - Key Signature and Accidentals

#2 - Tonality/Scale

#3 - Pattern, Accidentals, Shapes, Looking Ahead

(flip the page . . . I've got some sight reading for you to do!)

You'll find that this song is built of all the building blocks discussed on page one.

- Key Signature, and exceptions (flats, sharps, naturals).
- Tonalities (pentatonic scale, chromatic scale.
- Patterns (enclosures, approach notes, triads, scale patterns).
- Repetition (in rhythm, in melody, in melodic shape).
